On Tuesday, February 16, 2010, RotoCommunity.com participated in a fantasy baseball mock draft (on Mock Draft Central) with the other industry experts listed below. Player position eligibility was provided by Mock Draft Central. We assumed standard 5x5 category roto scoring with 23 starters and no reserves (for the purposes of the mock). Here's how the draft went down round-by-round, with analysis following each round.

You can go here to read about my first mock draft of the season (1/26/10). That one was a 12-teamer. Go here to read about my 15-teamer from Sunday, 1/31. Go here to read about my Tuesday, 2/2 mock. Go here to read about my Tuesday, 2/9 mock. Go here to read about my Tuesday, 2/14 mock. This is my sixth expert mock within the past few weeks.

Just as in the February 14 draft, I had the No. 1 pick, and surprisingly this draft unfolded in very similar fashion insofar as my available players. I shook it up a bit in the middle rounds, and went with a few different players than last draft. Let's see how I made out.

ROUND 1

R1 P1	RotoCommunity_Davidson	Pujols, Albert	1B

R1 P10	burakiewicz	Cabrera, Miguel	1B
R1 P11	Bob Sikon - Fantasy Base	Teixeira, Mark	1B
R1 P12	@JoelHenard	Longoria, Evan	3B

No-brainer pick here. junkyardjaks pulls a shocker by drafting Braun at No. 2, then Cory perpetuates his man-crush on A-Rod by passing over Hanley Ramirez for the Yankees third baseman. Strange days indeed.

ROUND 2

R2 P1	@JoelHenard	Tulowitzki, Troy	SS
R2 P2	Bob Sikon - Fantasy Base	Crawford, Carl	OF

Just as in the February 14 draft, Mauer inexplicably falls to No. 24. Thank you, thank you one and all. The trueguru shows a lot of love for Reynolds, but I'm not feeling it, I'm afraid. He and I are more of a fourth-round thing than a second-round thing.

ROUND 3

R3 P1	RotoCommunity_Davidson	Youkilis, Kevin	1B
R3 P2	Junkyardjake	Sizemore, Grady	OF
R3 P3	KFFL-Cory	Gonzalez, Adrian	1B
R3 P4	Cobra Kai	Zimmerman, Ryan	3B
R3 P5	Jason Swist (Fantasy Base	Upton, Justin	OF
R3 P6	thetrueguru	Votto, Joey	1B
R3 P7	Ivar Anderson-Fantasy Ga	Werth, Jayson	OF

R3 P10	burakiewicz	Bay, Jason	OF
R3 P11	Bob Sikon - Fantasy Base	Pedroia, Dustin	2B
R3 P12	@JoelHenard	Suzuki, Ichiro	OF

I filled the void at thoid by drafting Youkilis -- no more needs be said about this pick. I thought Petey was a nice value at 3.11, but I'm not sure that Jayson Werth will return third-round value

ROUND 4

R4 P1	@JoelHenard	Morneau, Justin	1B
R4 P2	Bob Sikon - Fantasy Base	Lind, Adam	OF
R4 P3	burakiewicz	Martinez, Victor	C
R4 P4	aaron marks	Jeter, Derek	SS
R4 P5	X-Factors	Greinke, Zack	SP

R4 P7	thetrueguru	Halladay, Roy	SP
R4 P8	Jason Swist (Fantasy Base	Hernandez, Felix	SP
R4 P9	Cobra Kai	Dunn, Adam	OF
R4 P10	KFFL-Cory	Markakis, Nick	OF
R4 P11	Junkyardjake	Santana, Johan	SP
R4 P12	RotoCommunity_Davidson	Hill, Aaron	2B

Hill again tumbles to the end of the fourth round -- apparently many folks are thinking that he can't repeat his '09 performance. I don't think so either -- but 20-25 bombs and something around .285 would be just fine. Some good starting pitcher value here, especially Greinke and Halladay in the middle of the fourth round. Nice.

R5 P10	burakiewicz	Cano, Robinson	2B
R5 P11	Bob Sikon - Fantasy Base	Broxton, Jonathan	RP
R5 P12	@JoelHenard	Wainwright, Adam	SP

I love Haren, but the whole second-half implosion thing gets old after a few repeats. I'll try to move him again this year, but with the cat out of the bag, his trade value will be way below market value. Don't just dump him, though -- perhaps the Snakes will limit his innings a bit this year and maybe help him through his chronic second-half woes.

ROUND 6

R6 P1	@JoelHenard	Verlander, Justin	SP
R6 P2	Bob Sikon - Fantasy Base	Ramirez, Aramis	3B

I thought that Verlander was a nice value here, but Beckett, Lester and Johnson felt a tad early to me. I had eschewed outfielders in the draft's early going, (a recipe for disaster in five-outfielder leagues) so I was glad to see Lee...

R7 P12	@JoelHenard	McLouth, Nate	OF

...and Abreu still on the board. Between them, they give me strong batting average, power and stolen bases... and yes, I did breathe a big sigh of relief after landing them both. Derrek Lee seems to be going earlier in drafts lately, so maybe folks are figuring out that he had a pretty darn good season last year. Carp and Gallardo are solid picks, but I'm not sold on McLouth this early.

R8 P10	KFFL-Cory	Valverde, Jose	RP
R8 P11	Junkyardjake	Jones, Adam	OF
R8 P12	RotoCommunity_Davidson	Cain, Matt	SP

Cain and Haren give me a dynamic 1-2 punch, though I could have gone with Jimenez here as well. Those two are what I view as the last of this tier of starting pitchers. Plenty of closers left the board this round, which has been the norm. Guess it's time to act.

Coco should be fine again this season, and he's one of the last "worry free" options still on the board. I thought Wieters represented very good value this late in a two-catcher format. Peavy may be fine, but his propensity for arm trouble plus a move to the AL have me looking in the other direction.

ROUND 10

Young is a rock-solid choice as my corner infielder; I just love these boring vets that fall too far. Bailey was a nice pick; I almost grabbed him instead of Cordero last round.

If he stays healthy, Kubel should be back in the .290-25-90 range at least this season. It's all about those knees holding up. I almost took Carlos Gonzalez here, and might have done exactly that if given a do-over. I'm not sure I like the Dexter Fowler pick here, though.

I like Jurrjens, but the other drafters shied away due to his arm acting up a bit at the time. He looks to be back on track now. Corey Hart could pay big dividends, especially this late. I think Mike Gonzalez is going to have a nice season in B'more... nice pick, Bob.

I was hoping Hoffman would make it back to me, but I had no such luck. I'll take Davis as a cheap source of steals... he could make a run at 50 in the A's small-ball offense. Shields could be nice value here. I believe he'll bounce back a bit this season.

I've written about Sheets before -- if Billy Beane saw enough to give him 10 large, then that's enough for me. Damon looks like a nice value way down here, and Montero falling this far in a two-catcher format is surprising. I'm not buying in on Harden -- too brittle for my taste.

Barnes should be a nice source of late power, with a few steals thrown in for good measure. Looking back, Theriot should have been my man, as I probably could have used his base-stealing talents more than Barnes' pop. I would have taken Ludwick here had I had the roster space, but with no bench you have to stay within the draft's constraints.

Come on Yanks, give the kid the ball. Hughes could be a rotation fixture for years if the Yanks would get over their infatuation with Joba Chamberlain's non-ability as a starting pitcher. The trueguru buys a lottery ticket with Bedard, and Cory steals my pick by taking Bumgarner. Sometimes I regret teaching that guy so much about Fantasy Baseball.

ROUND 23

R23 P1	RotoCommunity_Davidson	Strasburg, Stephen	SP
R23 P2	Junkyardjake	Chapman, Aroldis	SP
R23 P3	KFFL-Cory	Headley, Chase	OF
R23 P4	Cobra Kai	Avila, Alex	C

R23 P9	aaron marks	Castro, Jason	C
R23 P10	burakiewicz	Buck, John	C
R23 P11	Bob Sikon - Fantasy Base	DeRosa, Mark	3B
R23 P12	@JoelHenard	Hafner, Travis	DH

It doesn't look like Strasburg will make the big club this spring, so in hindsight... well, there weren't too many better options out there. Chapman is looking like he could make the Show, and he's a nice lottery ticket at this point.

I like this team a lot. I'm a little soft with my second catcher and second closer, but I have some nice upside in Quentin, Sheets and Hughes. Davis and Abreu are good base-stealers, but I may be a bit thin in that category as well.
