

NFL - 2009 Fantasy Football Week 16 Survivor Pool Picks

Written by Patrick Mayo

Thursday, 24 December 2009 00:00 - Last Updated Sunday, 27 December 2009 14:39

Below, we rank the teams from best to worst concerning the certainty of victory this week. We're very confident that the top teams will win. We're not so confident that the bottom teams will win.

Ask a question about your line-up in our FORUM . Leave a comment about this article down below.

SURVIVOR POOL PICKS

1. SF v DET - the 49ers should have no worries with the domesticated Lions coming to Candlestick
2. GB v SEA - Green Bay will clinch with a win... count on it
3. ARI v STL - Arizona should begin to charge up for their playoff run this week
4. NE v JAC - the Pats are 7-0 at home
5. PHI v DEN - Philly is looking more dangerous every week
6. DAL @ WAS - the 'Skins looked pathetic last week... they're packing it in from here on in
7. CIN v KC - the Bengals are in with a win... they should take care of business here
8. ATL v BUF - the Buffalo Blue Brohmers should put up a fight
9. MIN @ CHI - cold-weather Monday-nighter should be close... potential upset in the making
10. NO v TB - not sure how long the starters stay in the game
11. PIT v BAL - Pittsburgh could throw a serious wrench into the AFC playoff picture
12. OAK @ CLE - no way the Browns win three in a row
13. HOU @ MIA - the Texans' resurgence has come as soon as everyone wrote them off
14. TEN v SD - it's a nothing game for the Chargers, but their depth could make it interesting
15. CAR v NYG - the schizophrenic Giants could be prime for an upset
16. IND v NYJ - depends on how long the Colts keep Manning in

Again, ask a question about your line-up in our FORUM . Leave a comment about this article down below.